Administrative Note

Sacred Heart was a Catholic Church built in 1917 in Allentown, Wis. Parishioners from the nearby St. Anthony Church made up the first congregation at Sacred Heart. The initial building housed both the church and a school. The pastors of Sacred Heart also operated the St. Mathias mission church in Nabob, with many activities and records between the two locations overlapping. The church was remodeled in 1959, and a new school building was constructed at that time. The School Sisters of St. Francis operated the school from its opening to its close in 1969. After years of a combined Tri-Parish council and dwindling parishioner numbers, Sacred Heart, Ss. Peter and Paul, and St. Anthony Parishes merged to form Resurrection Catholic Church in 1997, located at the site of the former Sacred Heart Parish.

Scope and Content Note

This collection contains annual reports, bound and unbound weekly bulletins, and parish council meeting materials. Two parish societies - Christian Mothers Society and Holy Name Society - are represented here. There are construction specifications for the 1959 remodel and school expansion, and the original correspondence from Archbishop Messmer for the establishment of Sacred Heart is also included. There are some school and parish photographs and lists of graduates.
